St. James's, September 29.

THE following Addreſs was preſented to his Majeſty by the Reverend Dr. Sherlock, Vice-Chancellor of the Univerſity of Cambridge, accompanied by ſeveral Maſters of Colleges, with divers other Members of that Univerſity, introduced by the Right Honourable the Lord Viſcount Townſhend, one of his Majeſty's Principal Secretaries of State, in the Abſence of his Grace the Duke of Somerſet, Chancellor of the ſaid Univerſity.

To the KING's moſt Excellent Majeſty.

The humble Addreſs of Thanks from the Chancellor, Maſters and Scholars of the Univerſity of Cambridge.

Moſt Gracious Sovereign,

WE beg leave to approach your Majeſty with our moſt humble Thanks for the gracious Mark of Royal Favour which your Majeſty has beſtowed on your Antient Univerſity of Cambridge.

There never was an Occaſion when we were either more deſirous to expreſs our Sentiments of Gratitude, or leſs able to do it to our own Satisfaction. The Genius of Learning which has for many Ages ſo happily preſided in this place, cannot furniſh us with Language to utter what we feel. There is nothing to which even the Wiſhes of your Univerſity extend that is not fully contained in the Happineſs ſhe now enjoys of calling your Majeſty her King and her Patron: One is the Common Bleſſing of every Britain, the other the Peculiar Privilege of the Sons of Learning.

The noble Collection of Books and Manuſcripts gathered in many Years by the great Induſtry and accurate Judgment of the late Biſhop of Ely, tho' in it ſelf exceeding valuable, is upon no account ſo welcome to your Univerſity, as that it is a Teſtimony of your Royal Favour: The Memory of which will be conſtantly preſerv'd by this ample Benefaction, worthy to bear the Title of the Donor, and to be for ever ſtyled THE ROYAL LIBRARY.

Liberty and Learning are ſo united in their Fortunes, that your Majeſty's known Character, of being the Great Protector of the Liberty of Europe, led us to expect what our Experience has now confirmed, that you would ſoon appear the Patron and Encourager of Learning. Such Royal Qualities muſt neceſſarily produce the proper Returns of Duty and Affection: Your Univerſity will endeavour, as ſhe is bound to do by the ſtrongeſt Ties of Intereſt and Gratitude, to promote the Happineſs of your Government. And 'tis with the greateſt Pleaſure ſhe obſerves, that ſome there are whoſe Youth was formed under her Care, of whoſe Abilities and Fidelity your Majeſty has had the fulleſt Experience.

Your Royal Progenitors, the Kings and Queens of England, moved by their Regard to Vertue and Learning, have conferr'd many large Privileges and Donations on this Place; thoſe who ſhine with the greateſt luſtre in Story, appear the foremoſt in the Liſt of our Patrons and Benefactors: And as your Majeſty's great Name will be an Ornament to the Annals of Britain, ſo ſhall it ſtand thro' Ages to come a perpetual Honour to the Records of this Univerſity.

It ſhall be our inceſſant Prayer to God for your Majeſty, that he would long preſerve you to Reign over us in Peace and Tranquility, that he would extend your Empire over the Hearts of your Subjects, a Dominion for which he then deſigned you, when he adorned you with ſo much Goodneſs and Clemency.

To which his Majeſty was pleaſed to make the following moſt gracious Anſwer.

IT is a great Satisfaction to me that this firſt Mark of my Favour has been ſo welcome and agreeable to you. The dutiful and grateful Manner in which you have expreſſed your Thanks upon this Occaſion, will oblige me to take all Opportunities of giving farther Proofs of my Affection to my Univerſity of Cambridge, being very ſenſible how much the Encouragement of Learning will always tend to the Security and Honour of our Conſtitution both in Church and State.

St. James's, September 30. The following Addreſſes have been preſented to His Majeſty.

An humble Addreſs of the Mayor and Burgeſſes of the Town and County of the Town of Nottingham, in Common Council aſſembled, in conjunction with the Aldermen thereof; preſented to his Majeſty by his Grace the Duke of Kingſton, Recorder of the ſaid Town.

An humble Addreſs of the Mayor, Deputy-Recorder, Magiſtrates, Miniſter, Aſſiſtants, and other Inhabitants of the Borough of Loſtwithyell in the County of Cornwall; preſented to his Majeſty by Thomas Liddell and Galfridas Walpole, Eſqrs; their Repreſentatives in Parliament, introduced by the Right Honourable the Lord Viſcount Townſhend, one of his Majeſty's Principal Secretaries of State.

An humble Addreſs from the Borough of Wilton; preſented to his Majeſty by John London and Thomas Pitt, Jun. Eſqrs; Repreſentatives in Parliament for the ſaid Borough, introduced by the Right Honourable James Stanhope, Eſq; one of his Majeſty's Principal Secretaries of State.

The following Addreſſes having been tranſmitted from Ireland, were preſented to his Majeſty by the Right Honourable James Stanhope, Eſq; one of His Majeſty's Principal Secretaries of State.

An humble Addreſs of the Soveraine Burgeſſes and Freemen of the Borough of Dingle in the County of Kerry.

An humble Addreſs of the Portreeve, Burgeſſes and Freemen of the Borough of Ardfert in the County of Kerry, at a general Meeting of the ſaid Corporation the 2d Day of September 1715.

Which Addreſſes His Majeſty was pleaſed to receive very graciouſly.

Copenhagen, September 28. Count Guldenlew is to go and take upon him the chief Command of the Daniſh Fleet, as High Admiral, and 'tis aſſured that he intends to embark on Board a Frigate on the 1ſt of next Month, in order to join the Fleet. It is diſcourſed here that the principal Occaſion of this Count's going is to put an End to ſome Miſunderſtandings which have been of late among the Daniſh Commanders: Admiral Rabe's Friends give out that he is indiſpoſed. The Delmenherſt and another Man of War, which were ſent into this Port to be refitted, will ſail again to rejoin the Fleet in a little time. The Perſian Ambaſſador, who came hither lately from France with a large Train of Domeſticks, has not yet purſued his Voyage; the going by Sea ſo late in the Year being dangerous, and a Journey by Land being
